Smarter Solutions in Vehicle Safety & Communication

Is your fleet as safe as it should be?

Today's technology helps protect your drivers and other road users. But technology changes fast – you need a solutions provider that can keep your fleet up-to-date and driving safely, while making the whole process simple and cost effective for you.

The Car Kit Company is Australia's leading specialist in after-market vehicle electronics. Where other companies supply products, we provide complete solutions with ongoing service backed by our national support network, technical expertise and peace of mind guarantees.

In the last 12 years we have installed tens of thousands of safety, tracking and communication systems into every type of vehicle. Some of our fleet clients include:

Smarter solutions designed for your fleet

Whatever your requirements, we can deliver a cost-effective solution. Call us – we'll come to see you, provide an obligation-free appraisal of your current situation and give you a comprehensive proposal.

Custom solutions designed for your needs

When a standard solution doesn't meet your needs, our technical experts will design a solution that does. We offer a consultancy and advisory service and full project management to ensure a seamless roll-out and minimal disruption to your daily operation.

We provide

What our clients say

"The Car Kit Company has provided an excellent service over the past 7 years in looking after the hands free needs of our nationwide fleet. I recommend them to any company needing someone to manage their in-car communications "

- Richard Ryburn, Dairy Farmers

"We used The Car Kit Company for a national rollout of over 300 car kits. It was a pleasure dealing with them and the entire process happened seamlessly with minimal disruption to our operations"

- John Portlock, Canon Australia

"Johnson & Johnson retrofitted approximately 250 sets of parking sensors to its national fleet. We realised the technology could minimize damage to the vehicles and provide an element of safety while reversing. The Car Kit Company delivered a professional and hassle-free service during the entire process."

- Donna Robertson – Johnson & Johnson
